

JOHN STILL TRAVELLING.

HE VISITS THE CITY OF DEACON RICHARD SMITH.

Cincinnati as a place for Park-train invention. The difference in Whiskey-A Bear Hunt-Boston Drummers ahead of a Truly Good Man-Two Maps of Porkopolis. Correspondence of the Sun.

CINCINNATI, Feb., 1872.—This is out West, but there is a winter out West than this is, nearer where the sun's rays, Niagara is a river. Before I left Cleveland I bought a grain elevator for fifteen cents. I took it with me. A drink of whiskey is a grain elevator. There are two kinds of whiskey; one is good, the other isn't good. I have discovered that the globules in bad whiskey are the shape of a triangle, and it is the sharp corners that scratch the throat going down. The globules in good whiskey are round and don't hurt. Quicker—How would you examine Irish whiskey? Answer—With a Mile-a-second scope, of course. Some whiskey is called benzine. A fellow drank a quart of it the other day and he hasn't been seen since.

I came here by rail, and if I hadn't been enough I would have left here on a rail. It is foul play to eat chickens and turkeys in Ohio. Here hens are let out, and set to lay. In New York Hen Smith makes a man. Out here they call a female turkey Hen Turkey, because they don't see that yellow house?

Says I, "I do."

"Well," says he, "the man that lives there doesn't live there now; he resides in the State prison."

What for?" said I. Then he said it happened this wise: "You see last Thanksgiving that man wanted some turkey. He had one that he had adopted and raised from a child, and a week before Thanksgiving he commenced to try to kill it. Every day he'd take his rifle and shoot that turkey for an hour, until one day an officer came along and arrested him. 'On what charge?' says I. "These were two charges," says he; "one was in the gun, and the other was for making a turkey terfetti coin." No, said I, "Yes," said he. "You see, stranger," says he, "these balls would strike a man in the head, and the birds that were lazily inclined, when the laggards immediately dived, and soon came to the boat to deposit their flocks."

A Letter from the African Diamond Fields. From the Cape Argus, Dec. 12.

MY DEAR FRIEND—I feel at present, although the world is drawn at me, a man of great importance, and a diamond, which are five of twenty, and are worth $500 each.

"I have a diamond, which are five of twenty, and are worth $500 each.

"I have a diamond, which are five of twenty,
